I received a large volume of hate mail, filled with threats and animosity, from psychotherapists. A neurological exam is useful, but rarely done unless a person has significantly unusual behaviors. They told me to go to church - that that would help me...

They also have trouble using language to express their thoughts and needs, but Ron knew exactly what would help distract me from my worry, regarding Mom. Witnessing my Mom having mood swings often confused me. It isn't 'getting a bit ratty'. Even prisoners with chronic and severe impairments live under the same conditions. These memories and personalities had not emerged prior to admission, the patients were encouraged to manifest them through the technique of sodium amytal regression.
